

Final Writing Assignments

IAC 2002 “Science, Engineering and Religion:
An Interfaith Dialogue”

Dr. John D. Cressler
Georgia Institute of Technology

Assignment: “My Life’s Journey”

Mechanics: Take as much space as you need.

Spend some time in quiet reflection and then tell me about your life’s “journey” in a cohesive essay. This essay can take many different forms, but in general, I would invite you to reflect on, and then share: the inspirations for your life choices; the experiences in your life that have helped shape and mold you; the people in your life that you care about and who care for you, the ones that inspire you, or hold you back; your dreams for your life, and how you envision achieving those dreams; your long-term plans and goals. This essay can take many forms, obviously, so first spend some quiet time in reflection on your life’s journey. Then flesh out your essay out in a manner that feels best suited to who you are. Creativity is always welcomed. Whatever feels right to you.